
ALSO: BATHS OF FUTURE, GLASS ARTISTS, BANGALORE STORE LOOM

INDIA
TODAY

NOVEMBER 2013

RNI No. DE/ENG/2006/20557. Not for sale. To be circulated free of charge. Only in Kolkata. Supplement to India Today issue dated November 25, 2013

HOME

INTERNATIONAL DESIGN TRENDS

New age furniture ideas to keep your interiors timely

STATE OF THE ART

Sometimes even the most banal commodities can become a conversation starter. Like the Dumpsty miniature steel dumpsters that reflect the gritty, provocative nature of everyday life. Handiwork of US-based designer David Avgikos, these objects styled after the trash baskets seen in alleys and parking lots are made to preserve and promote the diversity of street art and the artists who create it. Weighing seven pounds, an ideal size for a desktop and for holding magazines, they come in variants such as fresh, raw, bombed, limited edition and painted. www.dumpsty.com

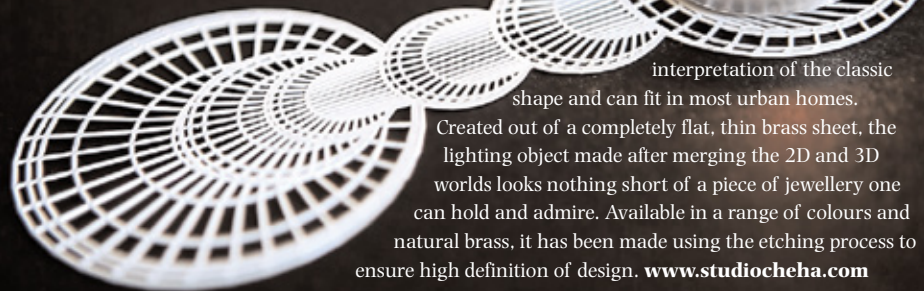

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Singapore-based product designer Fenny Ganatra doesn't believe in thinking within the box. Taking form, function and technology as the frame of reference, her Muse Collection is a timeless assortment of handcrafted products. Like this nine-seater Frozen dining set which was showcased at Maison et Objet 2013 in September. Coated with Corian-like material, the sculpture look-alike furniture can be fully customised with a selection of textiles, shapes and frame colours. www.fennyg.com

COME TO LIGHT

With this out-of-the-world décor accessory, Tel Aviv-based Nir Chehanowski of Studio Cheha is keeping the design flame burning. The Flatlight candle holder is a modern interpretation of the classic shape and can fit in most urban homes.

Created out of a completely flat, thin brass sheet, the lighting object made after merging the 2D and 3D worlds looks nothing short of a piece of jewellery one can hold and admire. Available in a range of colours and natural brass, it has been made using the etching process to ensure high definition of design. www.studiocheha.com